THE ANTI-LOTTERY BILL TAKES UP

Judge Hayes Presents a Strong and Logical Minerity Report-Other Congressional Proceedings.

The Senate this morning resumed consideration of the River and Harbor bill-the pending question being on Mr. Frye's proposed amendment respecting bridges over the Harlem River, Mr. Hawley offered an amendment to this, providing that the new bridges shall be without any draw spans or draws or openings. After a long discussion the amendment offered by Mr. Hawley for solid bridges was rejected, yeas 22, nays 26, and the amendment offered yeaterday by Mr. Frye, for drawbridges, was laid on the table without division, but with the understanding that the whole question would be determined by the conference com-

ANOTHER RESOLUTION BY MR. QVAY. This afternoon Mr. Quay offered a resolution similar to his late memorable resolution, to limit debate on the Tariff bill and to have it voted upon on August 30, and provid-ing further that no other legislation shall be taken up at the present session, other than the general appropriation bills, pensions bills, public building

Mr. Edmunds objected to the resolution, and it was not received. Air. Quay gave notice that he would again present the resolution to the Senate on Mon-

In the House to-day Mr. Snyder of Minnesota submitted the conference Minesota submitted the conference report on the bill to establish a national park at the battlefield of Chickamangs, and it was agreed to. The vote then recurred on the Nat. McKay bill, and the bill was passed—yeas 83, nays 65—the Speaker counting a quorum.

Mr. Cannon of Illinois, from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution for the immediate consideration of the Anti-Lottery bill, the previous cores.

the Anti-Lottery bill, the previous ques-tion to be considered as ordered at 4:40

The resolution was adopted and the bill was taken up.

Mr. Hayes of Iowa made a strong minority report on the Anti-Lottery bill. He opposes it on the ground that it is unconstitutional, unnecessary and centralizing in tendency. He thinks the laws now on the Statute books should be enforced before new ones are passed.

A Life-Saver Rewarded.

Representative Caruth of Kentucky had passed in the House to-day a bill to pension John J. Tully of Louisville on account of heroic deeds in the Life-Saving Service. He is now a member Saving Service. He is now a member of the police force of Louisville. The Kentucky Legislature passed a resolution commending Tully very highly, declaring that he received permanent injury, and that he ought to be pensioned. This is the first Life-Saving Service pension that the House has ever voted. The report in the case is a very interesting one, and it is stated that during his seven years connection with the service, Tully saved more than 100 lives.

The Last Place Where Men Should Even Fretend to Struggle,

From Muckiesot's Magazine. Never was a more wonderful mingling of strange elements than in this great temple of the Holy Sepulchre. The Greeks have one portion of it, the Latins, or Roman Catholics, another, the Armenians a third, and there is also a division, I think, for the Copts. In all believe, the Lord was cruelfied and buried, there have been struggles, sometimes ending in bloodshed, between the conflicting churches,

People say that still, but for the Turkish soldiers about, such struggles would take piace again. Needless to say, yet it is necessary to say it, since the valgar mind loves to perpetuate such a report, that neither of the churches or authorities are responsible for these blazings up of popular rivalry. It is the ignorant multitude that do the haim, which all the efforts of the leaders are ineffectual to restrain or

The special moment of danger when such unseemly strife has happened has been the moment of the supposed miracle of the holy fire, which takes place on the Saturday between Good Friday and Easter, according to the Greek calendar. On this day, in the afternoon, the Greek Patriarch comes down with a solemn procession to the Holy Sepul-chre, and entering into the little chapet with his attendant bishop alone, after a short interval of husbed expectation, puts forth, through a round aperture in the wall of the sepulchre, the miraculous fire which is supposed to spring

Eugene Field Tells How Dyspeptics Should Eat,

From the Chicago News. I am told that the most remarkable physician in England at the present time lives in Birmingham. He is not yet 40 years of age-I cannot recall his name at this moment. What interested me in the talk I had about him was the circumstance that he violates many of the customs of life. For example, he dines at 730 every evening, and at 9 o'clock he goes to bed. At 2 o'clock in the morning he rises, reads for two hours and writes for three hours. At 7 o'clock he eats a light breakfast, and then goes to bed again, rising at 11. The hours devoted to the practice of his profession are therefore, with few exceptions, between noon and 7 p. m. The amount and the quality of work done by this man are said to be simply wonderful, and in five years he has risen to a foremost place in the medical pro-

AFTER VALERIE'S WEDDING.

The Empress of Austria Still Loves to Wander. From the Landon Figure

The Empress of Austria is not yet cured of her love of wandering far away from her home. As soon as her daughter, the Archduchess Marie Valerie, is married, the Empress Elizabeth intends to start for Amsterdam, whence early in August she will set out for Gibraltar on what it is rumored may prove a voyage around the world. She is as fond of equestrian exercise as ever, but, unfortunately, the state of her health has rendered it necessary for her to finally relinquish her seat in the

How she has walked for some years past is a matter of common talk in Austria-Hungary. To the diamay of her ladies in attendance the Empress has often rambled over the hills of Buds, and through the sylvan shades of the Winerwald, till her companions have been literally walked off their legs, and have been obliged to ask their imperial mistress for permission to sit and rest. Even if the Empress does not go around the world, it is under-stood that she will certainly pay a visit to America, a country for which she has often expressed great admira-

The house in which the Archduchess Marie Valerie and her bushand will pass the first part of their married life is the old and, until lately, semi-dilapt-dated chateau of Wels, which has been bought by the Emperor and patched up autholearly to serve us a temporary home for the newly married couple. Wels, once a baronial schloss and easily reached by rail from the Kalserstadi, stands on rising ground, and is surrounded by delightful old-fashfoned terraces and gardens of considerable extent. It has been furnished with marked simplicity and taste.

TARIFF REVOLT IN THE WEST.

Republicans Demand That Sevision Exciting Encounter With Brigands in Must Lower Duties,

From the St. Louis Globe Democrat (fun 5 The Republican revolt against any nerease in customs duties which Mr. deed, it should have been begun long ago. While the McKinley bill has some good features, like the alterations In the sugar schedules, it has several

These had ones, of course, do not altogether neutralize the good, but as there is no valid reason why there should be any bad ones at all their existence is o the country and a serious menace to Against these bad provisions—the rate-ing of the level of imposts in several schedules of the bill—every consistent and public spirited Republican should vigorously protest.

The attitude of the Republicans of the West toward the tariff may be ontlined in a few words. Revision of the duties to which the party pledged it self in 1888 they interpreted to mean reduction. This is the construction which has been pisced on the phrase in this section. Moreover, it is the

in this section. Moreover, it is the only construction which is in harmony with either logic or propriety.

Every Republican stump speaker who appeared in the West during the canvass of 1888, and every Republican newspaper of the West understood and proclaimed that by revision regulator was indicated. revision reduction was indicated. The West insists that, when duties are touched, they shall be lowered. They say, leave the rates as at present to the cases in which it may appear desirable to make no modifications, but let every change be a change downward. So far as we have ever been able to learn from a tolerably careful and con-scientious study of the matter there is not the shadow of an excuse for a single increase of duty which is made by the McKinley bill. Not one argument has ever been presented in defense of this policy which is worthy of a moment's rious consideration.

The industries affected have been running along under the prevailing im-posts since 1883, and if any of them have suffered by the arrangement in these seven years the fact was carefully concealed from the country until the framing of the new tariff bill gave an opportunity to certain interests to secure higher rates and make greater profits. The time has come for Western Republicans to openly and clearly define their position in this particular.

A STORY OF WENDELL PHILLIPS.

Where the Great Grator Told a Parsen to Go, From the Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Purvis told a good and characteristic story of the late Wendell Phillips, who fought side by side with him during the battle for emancipation. One day he arose to address a meeting that was more than usually hostile to the sholitionists and had howled down and insuited several previous speakers. Mr. Pullifes walked to the front of the platorm, and, scanning the angry faces in ront of him with a keen and fearless eye, began: "You scoundrels!" Inand curses, but when they ceased he repeated in a louder voice: You Again the storm rose and again he re-Again the term. The fourth time the American admiration for fearlessness and fair play asserted itself, and the balance of his speech was listened to in slience and with respect. Another time Mr. Phillips was in a rallway car in which were a number of ministers reurning from a convention. Among the number was a man with a loud, strident voice, who was loudly declaiming against the abolitionists, and especially against Mr. Phillips. He was talking 4. Bread may be eaten (aerated bread shouted that he understood that Mr. Phillips was on board. Calling the conductor, he asked him to point out Mr. Philips. The conductor indicated the orator, who had been a quiet and erested listener. The little man with the voice strode up the aisle to a disrespectful distance, and after striking an attitude, the folowing colloquy took place:

"So you are Wendell Phillips?"

"I am, sir," replied the orator,

"Then why don't you go South and preach your doctrine there?" shouted the little minister.

Details are given in the Indian papers of the painful death of Mr. Howard of the Norfolk Regiment from injuries received in a struggle with a tiger. Mr. Howard was out shooting near Mala-puram, on the west coast, when he saddenly came upon a tiger. He fired and wounded the animal, which fied into the jungle. Mr. Howard, an hour later, came across the tiger in the open. The animal charged at him, and Mr. Howard fired at him and missed. Two natives ran away. Though a third one re-mained and was successful in shooting the tiger, he did not succeed in time to prevent it from scizing and inflicting serious injuries on Mr. Howard. From these he was at first expected to recover, but he died suddenly, to the great re-gret of his regiment, one morning shortly after his exciting struggle.

The Proper Way to Study Europe, Professiv A. F. Perdedy in the Farum, I was between 50 and 60 years of age when I first went abroad, and I have been glad that I first saw Europe so late in life. What a man gets by foreign travel depends on what he carries with him. He finds answers only to the questions which he is prepared to ask, and, the longer he lives. tions he has in his mind to put to ans concerning the places and objects that he visits. Then, too, the power of cucyment as to whatever is grand beautiful grows, or ought to grow, with one's years, and a lake or mountain, a palace or cathedral, a picture or a status, is more, means more, and tells more to a man of 50 than to a usu of 23.

A VOICE FROM KANSAS.

The Western Farmer Has No Interest in High Tariff,
From the Atchison Champion.

The Western farmer has no interes whatever in a protective tariff. His interest rather lies in the direction of free trade-of access to all marketswherever his products may be in de mand. It is for his interest to sell what he raises wherever in all the wide world se can find a purchaser, and thus pro-ride himself with the means of dispos ng of his surplus crops. Not only is is vitally interested in securing all cossible markets, but equally so in buying what he needs as cheaply as cossible. Sell where he may, and buy at the lowest figures-this, selfish as it may seem, is what most concerns the Western farmer.
Free trade will give the West the markets of the world and an opportunity to buy what it requires at less than half it now pays for these same Lumber, hardware, furniture, clothing, groceries and agricultural imple-ments—these the West needs princi-pally. Free trade will bring these things to us at figures far below pro In all this the Champion speaks solely from the standpoint of self-interest. It is with States and sections as with indi-vidual citizens—self preservation is the first obligation. A due regard to our sectional preservation, our territorial interest, demands the adoption of free trade-commercial reciprocity with all nations. The East, as we have stated, has grown dangerously rich by means of a protective tariff; now let the West assert itself and use the means at its command to change its economic policy to one more conducive to sectional wel-

The question is broader than party lines. It is more vital than mere formal political organizations, and more essential than the dominance of any particu-lar set of politicians, for it touches our life and is indissolubly interwoven with our existence. Protection continued twenty years nger, and the West, with its vast agritural possibilities, would be a pauper bound hand and foot. Let us who live here in the West be fools no longer, but let us exercise our common sense and protect our own interests by obtaining, just as quickly as possible, the freest trade with all its attendant benefits.
